VOL. XIII] MONDAY, APRIL 14, 1817. [4889

☞ I have lately learned that the following reports, respecting my School and Boarding House, are in circulation, viz. That the Boarders are sent to the Pump for water—that the joints of our floors are open, which has given the young Ladies chilblains—that those whose parents do not belong to the Presbyterian Church, are, nevertheless, obliged to go with me to the Presbyterian place of worship; and finally, that Boarders and Scholars are leaving me.

In justice to myself, I am constrained to say, that these reports are utterly without foundation in truth. My family is as healthy, in proportion to its number, as any in Leesburg, and healthier than some. I do not object to a young lady's attending a different church from mine, provided her parents wish it, when she can have a suitable female companion to accompany her: without this, I am in duty bound to keep her under my own protection.

Such reports must have been sent abroad, either by those entirely ignorant of my establishment, or, by some evil and designing persons, who wish to injure the reputation of my Boarding House and School.

I return my thanks to the public for the liberal patronage which I have received; and have the pleasure of informing them, that my school has never been more prosperous than at present; and that in June I expect to remove to a large building well adapted for Boarding and Teaching, erected for the purpose, in one of the most healthy, pleasant and retired situations in town.

Forty Dollars Reward.

Ran away on or about the 25th of December last, from the subscriber, living in Middleburg, Loudoun county, Va. a black man named Daniel, or Daniel Fisher, (formerly belonging to the estate of Thomas Noland, dec'd) about 38 years of age, 5 feet 10 or 11 inches high, stout made, speaks slow and full, and has a large scar on one of his feet occasioned by a cut. He had on and took with him a blue coat and pantaloons, fur. red hat, and shoes and other clothes not particularly known. He was hired in Waterford during the last year and I understand had liberty to hire himself about. He is a very good hand in a brick yard and is tolerable good shoemaker. It is probable he has engaged himself in one of the above trades. He mentioned when he left Waterford that he should go to Harper's Ferry and commence boating, having obtained my leave to do so. Whilst at Waterford he lived in the house of a free negro, and it is highly probable he has procured a pass from some of them, to suit his purpose. He has a mother living in the neighborhood of the Little Falls, belonging to the Dulaney estate. The above reward will be given to any person who will deliver him to me, or secure him in any jail so that I get him again.

ARABARB.

The noted Arabian Horse;

IMPORTED from Algiers by the late Consul General, will arrive about the middle of May at Havre de Grace, and will stand near the ferry the remainder of the season, at the very reduced price of Twenty five Dollars a Mare.

This noble animal is of a glossy jet black, seventeen hands and an inch high, and is pronounced, by all judges who have seen him, to be perhaps the best horse ever brought into this country. He was obtained with much difficulty, by the present Dey of Algiers, (then Aga or General of the troops) from the Arabs about Mount Atlas. The Aga declared him to be the noblest and best blooded Arabian he had ever seen in the interior, and was proud to have him sent to this country as a specimen. Gentlemen who have frequently seen Arabian horses bro't down to the coast of Barbary, pronounce Arabarb to be a genuine Arabian of the highest blood; and he corresponds exactly with every authentic description of these noble animals. A particular history of the horse, and of the manner he was obtained from the Arabs, may be seen at the stable. He stands the first part of the season at the City of Washington, where he stood last season at Fifty Dollars. The price is reduced so low this season, because it is probably the last he will stand in the Atlantic States, and it is desirable to retain as much of his blood as possible, while there is an opportunity Insurance Forty Dollars, single leap Fifteen Dollars, and Groom Fifty Cents. A note must be sent with each Mare for $30, payable on demand to B. L. LEAR, or order, which may be redeemed with 25 dollars, if paid within the season.

HORRID SUPERSTITION.

Extract from a Calcutta paper of Sept. 1815:—About a fortnight ago, a distressing accident, well calculated to place the horrid superstitions of the natives in their true light took place in the town of Burdwan. An aged Hindoo of the Kulwar, or spirit vending tribe, his widow, an old woman of 72, in compliance with the customs of her ancestors, and to prove her lasting attachment to the deceased, resolved on sacrificing herself at his funeral pile. The faggots being heaped up, the preliminary ceremonies concluded, & the body of the deluded wretch being anointed with oil, she was led to the stake, and bound down by a strong cord. Fire was then placed under the pile, the lower part of which soon began to blaze. The flame had no sooner ascended to the body of the devotee, that she began to struggle, and soon succeeded in making her escape, in consequence of the rope by which she was secured having been consumed. Being now at liberty she rushed precipitately towards the police officers on duty there, piteously calling to them to save her from destruction. She was led away amid the murmurs of an interested and disappointed multitude, and after languishing in extreme pain for two days paid the forfeit of her blindness and folly.

FROM SOUTH AMERICA.

BRIDGE-TOWN, March 22.

In our last, we gave an account of the success that had attended the operations of the Venezuelian army in a recent contest with the native troops of Spain, whose situation, if dependence may be placed in the statements of the other party, must be truly deplorable. The result of the battle that was last fought (as far as our information goes) will be seen by the following.

Bulletin of the Republican Army of Venezuela.

The Spanish army under the command of Brigadier general Real which had been organized at Orituco and Chaguaramas, composed of European Spanish troops, to the number of 2000 men, effected its junction the day before yesterday with the division of Clarines, in the position called the Tuncal. At day break yesterday the enemy's parties were within musket shot of this city, by the Maurica road. At 7 A. M. the body of Spanish troops filed off, and took possession of the bridge without firing a shot, traversing the city, which we had previously disoccupied, without preserving more than our quarters of San Francisco. The Spanish Reserve halted at cannon shot of our posts: but drawn on by a brave detachment of cavalry and infantry sent to annoy them, they precipitated themselves within half musket shot. The battle continued here for three hours, with only two hundred of our infantry, who kept up a smart and destructive fire; the enemy losing, on their part, more than half their troops. The reserve being beaten, 100 men of the batalion of Margarita, under the orders of their brave commandant, Perez, dislodged the enemy from the city, obliging them to pass the river. This gallant officer fell at the moment he took possession of the bridge. This small corps of Margarita then received orders to fall back on our positions. The enemy finding themselves nearly cut off, recrossed the river, and marched precipitately to join the reserve, which was now very distant from its first positions. Our troops keeping up a heavy fire on the Spanish division, forced them to a shameful flight, during which they never returned a single shot. But at the moment our cavalry and infantry were marching in their pursuit, the division of Clarines 700 strong, had penetrated into the city from the southward, as far as the principal square, and having re-occupied the bridge, obliged us to dislodge them from house to house. This operation lasted till near night, notwithstanding it was executed with the greatest rapidity and valor. In one of these assaults, the famous chief of the Charabs of the Orinoco, Manaure, had the misfortune to perish in the midst of the Spanish troops, which he had attacked with a resolution worthy of his valor.

The result of this action has been the most glorious to our arms. The only Spanish army which existed in Venezuela has been completely beaten. Their loss in killed, wounded, prisoners and dispersed, may be calculated at one half their forces. Their disorderly retreat will cause them to lose the rest, since each corps fled separately, as time and circumstances permitted; but for the approach of night, they would not have saved a man, for the ardour of our troops is superior to all eulogium; the actions of each individual are worthy of a place in history. A handful of men have beaten whole corps. The officers of all classes have distinguished themselves in a heroic manner; thus we have to regret the many killed and wounded in proportion to the soldiers, who do not exceed thirty; among the former capt. Camino, lieut. Tillaroel and Tachon, and ensign Carbajal; of the latter, Col. Hurtado, captains Cazorla, Contreras, Bombardo, and Ballares, and lieutenants Marcona & Conzalez.

The consequence of this day will be the speedy occupancy of the capital of Caracas. All the Llanos (cattle plains or Savanas of the interior) are in possession of the troops of the Republic, which march through the interior, while those of their headquarters take possession of the capital without the least obsticle.

LONDON, Feb. 8.

Yesterday was a day of which the country, the House of Commons, and the government, may justly be proud. Lord Castlereagh bro't forward his motion for a Select Committee of Finance.

In the very clear and able speech with which his Lordship introduced his motion, he took an ample view of the different establishments, and stated what reductions it was in the contemplation of government to propose, in the Army, the Navy, the Ordnance and the Miscellaneous Service. The following is a recapitulation of the

Army saving	£1.784.000
Navy ditto	3,717,000
Miscellaneous	1,000,000
Total saving	6,501,000

SUPPLY.

Army	7,050,000
Commissariat & Barracks, G. B	580,000
Ditto, ditto, Ireland	300,000
Extraordinaries	1,300,000
Ordnance	1,246,000
Navy	6,397,000
Miscellaneous, G. B. and Ireland	1.500,000
	£18,373,000

In reading the above statement we do not see how the Establishments of the Army and Navy could have been reduced lower in the second year after the war, and more particularly the Army, after the designs not only evinced but acted upon, of the Revolutionists to destroy the whole frame & system of our goveroment. If to have the suffrage of an opponent in their favor be an honour to ministers, they possess it in the person of Mr. Tierney, who had taken last year the probable amount of our establishments at 19 millions, about 700,000l. higher than they are now taken by Lord Castlereagh.

The Prince Regent gives up 50,000l. of his income this year. And the ministers abandon a portion of their salaries, a circumstance highly honorable both to his Royal Highness and his Ministers, for as on the one hand, we do not think that the expense of upholding the dignity and splendour of the Crown, and of such a Crown as that of the British Empire, has ever been too lavish; so, on the other, we have always thought that the salaries of our ministers are inadequate to the rank they hold, and the duties they have to discharge.

We believe we shall hear no more of the French Loan having been guaranteed by our government, after the reply of Lord Liverpool to Lord Lauderdale in the house of Lords last night. The latter nobleman wished to know, 1st, whether the British government had either directly or indirectly guaranteed the repayment of the loan—and 2ndly, whether ministers had informed the contractors that they did not consider themselves as under any obligation, at any future period, to stipulate for the repayment. The Earl of Liverpool replied, that the British government had not only not guaranteed the payment of the principal or interest of the loan, but had not held out any hope that either now or at any future period the government would consider itself as under any obligation to interfere for the purpose of securing the fulfilment, by the French government, of its engagement with the contractors. The answer is perfectly conclusive. Our ministers could do no more.

The funds continue to fluctuate: Consols for account opened at 65 3-8. The extensive speculators wished to realize the large profits that had accrued by the late advance; Consols in consequence declined to 64 3-4; at 2 o'clock they had again attained 65 1-2, and scarcely any person would venture to become what they technically term bears, from the great reductions in the establishments, and the peculiar favorable reports of the finances.

DUTCH BUDGET.

A Brussels article gives the estimate of the minister of Finance, for 1817. The income is calculated at 73,700,000 florins (a florin is about 1s 8d. sterling) and the expences at 3,400,000 fl.

The particulars of the attack on the Prince Regent, are thus given in a London paper of Jan. 30th.

"On the return of the Prince Regent from the house of lords, the crowd assembled in the streets, had increased greatly. St. James' Park, in particular, the mob was immense and they began to utter the most violent and indiscreet expressions the instant the royal carriage appeared. When the cavalcade had reached the Stable yard gate, it appears that the glasses of the State carriage were broken on both sides, almost instantaneously. The general impression was, that stones were the missiles employed, and yet the glasses, which are of uncommon thickness, were broken as cleanly as if done by a discharge from a musket or pistol.

"On the Prince royal alighting from the state carriage at St. James' Palace he immediately sent for lord Sidmouth; and after waiting considerable time for the arrival of lord Sidmouth, at St. James' Palace, left it in his private carriage for Carleton-house; and the refractory part of the populace having left the Park, he was then received with loud huzzas. His royal highness left his commands for lord Sidmouth to follow him to Carleton-house, where his lordship arrived shortly afterwards, as did the duke of York, and the dutchess of Gloucester, their royal highness having heard of what had happened lost no time in repairing to Carleton-house, to make inquiries.

"Lord J. Murray, who attended the regent in the state carriage as a lord in waiting, received a blow over his right eye from a piece of strong plate glass being struck against him.

"Whilst the more serious occurrences just alluded to were taking place in the Park, a farce was got up in Palace-yard, for the amusement of the rabble there assembled. The actors were Mr Hunt and Lord Cochrane. About three o'clock, the attention of the passengers in Parliament street were attracted by a man, in a dirty blue great coat, carrying a pole on his shoulder, to which a heavy bundle of parchment was suspended. This person was orator Hunt, for as such he speedily announced himself. —About fifty boys preceded and followed him, calling out, "Make way for Mr. Hunt!" and in this way the procession arrived in New Palace yard. Here Mr. H. stopped, & rapping at the door, of No. 7, asked if lord Cochrane was come? being answered in the affirmative he deposited his burden in the passage and presently lord Cochrane came forth. Hunt then harangued his followers from the step of the door; the noise was so great, that no person could hear a word, if we except his worthy colleague, who stood behind him, in humble reverence of his superior spouting faculties. A board or plank, and an arm chair were then produced by Mr. H. and upon the chair lord Cochrane was placed. His lordship was, in this manner conveyed on the shoulders of his admirers across Palace yard to the door of Westminster Hall, where he was set down, amid three cheers, and entered with shipbundles of parchment. Hunt who had preceded lord Cochrane clearing the way, now got, unbidden into the chair and was conveyed to the place from whence they had set out. Here he made another speech to the chairmen who carried him, and then entered the house. The mob then left him, taking the direction of the Park.

Several persons had been arrested and examined, on suspicion of being concerned in the assault upon the prince regent, and one of them had been committed for trial, on the charge of high treason.

The Morning Chronicle, on the 7th Feb. announced the death of the King of France; and the Courier, on the evening of the same day, contradicted the news, and asserted that his Galic Majesty was nearly restored to health.

From the New-York E. Post.

PORT-AU-PRINCE, 22d March, 1817.

Messrs. Ripley, Center & Co.

GENTLEMEN.—We are requested by Mr. ——, owner of the schooner Mary, to inform you that on the voyage from Savannah to St. Thomas, he was overhauled, and captured by the privateer brig, True-blooded Yankee, under Chilian colors, commanded by captain Jewitt, on the plea of having Spanish property on board, and sent into this port, where he arrived on the 9th inst. Captain Jewitt, who arrived the same day, finding that he could do nothing with either the Mary or her cargo, relinquished his claim to both; when on the 16th inst. the Mary was seized by this government, because she had been captured and sent in here as a prize, than which, a more unjust act was never committed upon the flag of any nation—protection is supposed to be due to the American flag in the ports of Hayti—the case of the Mary proves the contrary.

The True-Blooded Yankee, it is understood, has never been to that country (Chili) whose flag she bears, but was fitted out at New-York, and after a cruise from 3 to 4 months made this port to refit and obtain supplies.

We are, respectfully, Gentlemen, your obedient servants,
D. CURREY AND CO.

REMARKS.

We publish the above letter which has been handed to us for such purpose, and agree in opinion with the writer respecting the unjustifiable conduct of Petion. The pretence for seizure was futile and wholly unwarrantable. At the same time we cannot refrain from expressing our abhorrence at a species of piracy, which at this moment disgraces the character of the American sailor. Under the pretence of aiding the cause of the Spanish patriots, vessels of force have been fitted out by certain individuals in our ports and harbors, to come against the Spaniards, wherever they are found upon the ocean; and when Spaniards are not found, rather than be disappointed of their object, plunder, they depredate on their own countrymen. If these lawless outrages are not by some means suppressed, swarms of pirates from our own shores, will soon rival the Algerines.

Extract of a letter from a gentleman at Trinidad, in Cuba, to his friend in New-York, dated Feb. 20, the original of which is in the possession of the editors.

"Fortune is always in a capricious humor, when treating of my affairs. She holds out the lure of fame, honor and fortune, and while I am yet grasping at the pleasant vision, the illusion vanishes, and I awaken in the glooms of poverty and obscurity.

"Alas! my country! poor Venezuela! The theatre for Spanish barbarity to act upon! Thy children have lacerated thy bosom! Thy fair appearance has been mangled by the savage cruelty of the Spaniards! and thy charming plains literally inundated with the blood of harmless innocence! Say! ye learned interpreters to the will of Heaven! Why sleeps eternal justice, while crimes and assassination stalk the world? War, in its mildest form, is dreadful; but in South America it is carried on with indescribable horror. The sun shines to day, upon at least, two thousand human skeletons, bleaching in my fields in Guira, butchered by the Spanish assassins under the command of Morales; and most of them women, children, and negroes! In fine every thing on that coast has been destroyed; Guira exists no more; nor vestige of habitation remains."

A most destructive fever has prevailed in the island of Barbadoes for several months past, which has swept off a large portion of the population, and proved particularly fatal to strangers arriving. Nearly a thousand men are said to have died in the garrison at Bridgetown, alone, during the period of its continuance, and on board the shipping the mortality was proportionably great; many vessels being almost stript of their crews. The contagion is supposed to have been imported in a vessel from the Isle of France.

We have unpleasant Indian news. A communication was yesterday made to the executive of this state, by Gen. Mitchell, agent for Indian affairs, that he had just received authentic information of the Semnoles, or Florida Indians, being the perpetrators of the murders noticed in our last paper, and of their meditating further mischief. It is known they are hostilely disposed towards the United States; and it is believed their predatory and murderous incursions upon our frontier will be renewed and continued, till they are awed into submission by the presence of a competent military force, or shall be adequately punished for their late aggressions. Had only a part of the regular troops been removed from Camp-Crawford, as should have been the case, there is no doubt the Indians would have remained quiet and peaceable: But on the whole being withdrawn, which their ignorance of our character ascribed to fear, the latent sparks of discontent were easily kindled into a flame, by the machinations of a British emissary among them. Precautionary steps, we presume, will be immediately taken, to secure from danger such parts of our frontier as may be most exposed.—Geo. Journal.

SIR—Your letter of the 20th of November last is in my hands. Constantly travelling from city to city to excite public attention in favour of the deaf and dumb, and to solicit funds from generous souls, I received it in Philadelphia and a long time after its date. I did not answer you immediately, because I had then nothing interesting to inform you concerning our institution but now all being ready to receive the deaf and dumb, I can better answer your enquiries, and I send you this circular, which I trust, will give you all the information you may want concerning our school. Considering the American deaf and dumb as my brothers, and deeming it my duty to be their interpreter till they themselves can express their own ideas, I thank you sir, for your kindness, towards the young and interesting, William Workinger. I am glad to hear that he is endowed with considerable intelligence, and tha he has much improved under your care; so that if he comes to our school I have no doub he will improve yet more.

If you know some other deaf and dumb either in Baltimore or elsewhere, I shall be much obliged to you for telling their parents and friends no longer to be afflicted at the misfortune of their children: the Connecticut Asylum, which will, we hope, soon be common to them all, will repair the defects of nature

We are gratified to learn that an order has been issued from the Navy department, for the immediate discharge of all hired slaves or coloured men who may be retained as labourers, or servants in the Navy-Yards, &c. of the United States, and forbiding in future the employment of any others than white persons. This regulation will extend the means of subsistence to a large number of poor and industrious white men, one of employ, at the same time that it will prove an effectual remedy against a system of speculation, said to have been profitably exercised in a certain quarter where the government has paid full price for services which had been previously bargained for at less than one half, or perhaps one third of the pay, &c. established by law. It will be recollected that the President in his inaugural speech, declared his determination to keep a strict eye over the public expenditures, and to overhaul every agent of government whom he might find misusing the public money;—"and that accounts for it."

ALEXANDRIA:

MONDAY, APRIL 14, 1817.

The incense of flattery has been so long and so incessantly burned under the nostrils of the American people by party intriguers and their unprincipled servitors of the press, that a man who sincerely tenders the real welfare of his fellow citizens and the future prosperity of his country, must be angered and disgusted to see the shameless prodigality with which that pernicious unction is, day after day, daubed upon every thing presented to the public, and the indefatigable complacency with which it is accepted. I have ever abhorred it; and I consider it so disgraceful to the giver, and so mischievous to those who receive it, that I often feel a reluctance to avow even what I think would be warranted by truth, in speaking of the United States. I trust, however, that as party craft, which was the root of it, decays, this direful fruit will drop off and perish, and that an honest man who loves the country and makes a true estimate of its value, may soon speak his mind without inflaming vanity on the one hand, or on the other incurring the suspicion of luke-warmness to its interests, because he will not, like a parrot in a cage, din every passer-by with the fulsome self adulatory repetition of pretty, pretty Poll, or overwhelm the country with a storm of hyperboles, when the best praise that can be bestowed upon it is the truth.

If in any thing that I have to offer, I speak to the advantage of this country, let it be understood that I speak it from conviction, not for the purposes of deceits, artfulness or imposture, as has for so many years been unfortunately the practice, but merely to investigate truth, and in doing so, to admonish the people individually to regard the situation of the country and state of things in which they are happily placed, not as a personal merit of which they ought to be vain, but as a boon for which they ought to be grateful.

Having entered this protest, I hope I may without the least apprehension of being misunderstood, or of creating an undue personal elation in the bosom of any individual, express, not my pride, but my gratitude, that it has pleased the Almighty disposer to appoint my lot in a commonwealth, the advantages of which are every day thrown into bolder relief by the contrasted situation of other countries. To feel thus is natural—at the same time I most sincerely regret that the aspect presented by this country is heightened by circumstances involving so much misery to so large a portion of our fellow beings. America has too many positive intrinsic felicities of her own, to require any set-off from the misfortunes of a surrounding world. I hope all my fellow citizens—I am sure that every one of them who deserves the blessings he enjoys, will concur with me in this sentiment.

But while we deplore the calamities of Europe, it is not forbidden to us to profit by the many instructive lessons they present to us, or to take warning from the sufferings brought upon people of that quarter of the world by their misuse of the bounties of Providence. They once had their advantages as well as ourselves, though not exactly of the same kind; and we too, as well as they, are liable to dangers and reverses, though not perhaps in the same degree, nor altogether from the same proximate causes. Our political circumstances are at present so entirely different from those of the old nations at every period of their existence, that we may perhaps think ourselves secure on that side of their dangers: but let it be remembered that the political sentiments of every society grow out of its moral habitudes, and are ultimately influenced and controuled by them; and that we are already, within the first half century of our national existence, almost as well practised proficients in those pernicious arts of gratification, which brought Great Britain in to her present lamentable exigencies, as that once glorious country had reached after many centuries of refinement. In luxury, extravagance, ostentation and all the solid sensuality, as well as the fanciful frippery, which distinguished the purse-proud sons of commerce in England, we did not lag far behind London on the day that George III. was lost in his present mist of insanity; with this additional danger on our part, that, whereas those evils in Great Britain only blighted the top of the tree, here it threatens to canker the very root of society. Looking at the tables, the equipages, the dresses, the parties, the general manner of living of our opulent men and their wives, we find them cutting whip and spur, in emulation of the grandees of England; looking to those who follow them in rank—we find them awkwardly imitating them. Yes, the retail merchant, nay his shop-boy, the mechanic, and the mechanic's journeymen, and all their ladies, have caught the infection, and scorn to be less than equal in luxury, ostentation and extravagance. CURIO.

MR. SNOWDEN,

Allow a friend of yours that feels the importance of a discourse that was so eloquently and forcefully impressed on all who had the happiness of hearing it on Wednesday night last, at the Presbyterian Church, to send you a description (said to be authentic) of Him, at whose threshold our Baltimore and much regarded visitant stood. It is as follows:

"A description of the person of our Saviour.

"[It being the usual custom of the Roman Governors to advise the Senate and people of such material things as happened in their respective provinces—PUBLIUS LENTULUS, being President in the days of TIBERIUS CÆSAR, the Emperor, wrote the following Epistle to the Senate concerning Christ:]

"CONSCRIPT FATHERS,

"There appeared in these days a Man of great virtue named JESUS CHRIST, who is yet living among us, and, of the Gentiles, is accepted as a Prophet of Truth; but his own Disciples call him the Son of God. He raiseth the dead, and cureth all manner of diseases. A man of stature somewhat tall and comely, with a very reverend countenance, such as the beholders may both love and fear;—his hair is of the color of a filbert, fully ripe, plain to his ears, whence downward it is more orient of color, somewhat curling, and waving about his shoulders.—In the midst of his head is a seam, or a partition of his hair, after the manner of the Nazarites; his forehead plain and delicate, his face without spot or wrinkle, beautified with a comely red, his nose and mouth exactly formed, his beard thick, the color of his hair, not of any great length, but forked, his look innocent, his eyes grey, clear, and quick—in reproving, terrible—in admonishing, courteous—in speaking, very modest and wise—in proportion of body, well shaped. None have seen him laugh, but many have seen him weep—a man of his singular beauty surpasses the children of men."

Charleston, April 7.

FROM JAMAICA.—By the ship Cyrus, arrived on Saturday evening in 15 days from Kingston, we have received files of Jamaica papers to the 19th ult.

We learn, verbally, by this arrival, that information had just reached Kingston, and from a source which it was believed might be relied upon, that Petion was dead; this will probably give rise to new changes and convulsions in that devoted island. The demand made upon Petion some time since for the Jamaica pilot boat which had been carried off to St. Domingo, together with her crew, had been refused, and a frigate was about sailing from Kingston, to enforce the demand.

Capt. Thomas of the brig Aurora, arrived at this port from St Thomas, gives us the following account of the loss of the ship Oneida, Hillard, from N. York, bound to Havre de Grace: On the fourth day after sailing the Oneida sprang aleak, and from great exertions on the part of Captain H. and the crew, the vessel was kept free till the fourteenth day, but on the sixteenth day out finding the leak had increased, they determined to abandon the ship and take to the boats, when they discovered sail: made signals: and a short time after were taken on board, together with the passengers, 8 or 10 in number. She proved to be the schr. —— capt. ——, from Rhode-Island, bound to Curracoa, with a cargo of provision. From the [illegible] manner they were received on board the above schr. every kindness was expected; but, on the contrary, nothing but the very worst treatment was given; capt. H. and his passengers requested of capt.— to sell them provisions, but he refused: notwithstanding "there was a plenty and where withal to spare." A few days after they fell in with a Hamburgh ship, bound to St. Thomas, and were put on board, where they arrived about 10 days before the Aurora sailed. We did not learn the name of the schr. or captain, but are informed that capt. Hillard and a part of his passengers have taken passage for the U. S. when we expect to receive a more full account.

ARABARB.

The noted Arabian Horse;

IMPORTED from Algiers by the late Consul General, will arrive about the middle of May at Havre de Grace, and will stand near the ferry the remainder of the season, at the very reduced price of Twenty five Dollars a Mare.

This noble animal is of a glossy jet black, seventeen hands and an inch high, and is pronounced, by all judges who have seen him, to be perhaps the best horse ever brought into this country. He was obtained with much difficulty, by the present Dey of Algiers, (then Aga or General of the troops) from the Arabs about Mount Atlas. The Aga declared him to be the noblest and best blooded Arabian he had ever seen in the interior, and was proud to have him sent to this country as a specimen. Gentlemen who have frequently seen Arabian horses bro't down to the coast of Barbary, pronounce Arabarb to be a genuine Arabian of the highest blood; and he corresponds exactly with every authentic description of these noble animals. A particular history of the horse, and of the manner he was obtained from the Arabs, may be seen at the stable. He stands the first part of the season at the City of Washington, where he stood last season at Fifty Dollars. The price is reduced so low this season, because it is probably the last he will stand in the Atlantic States, and it is desirable to retain as much of his blood as possible, while there is an opportunity Insurance Forty Dollars, single leap Fifteen Dollars, and Groom Fifty Cents. A note must be sent with each Mare for $30, payable on demand to B. L. LEAR, or order, which may be redeemed with 25 dollars, if paid within the season.
